

Berliner Messingventile

TRADITIONAL GERMAN DESIGN

Berliner Messing is our newest valve model, inspired by a valve found in a basement in Berlin, June 2013. From the first moment we saw the valve, we knew it was a model that needed to be revived, that will bring style and elegance to peoples homes. Six months later, after making dozens of sketches and drawings of the antique plate and handle, the first molds were made. Since then, we started producing the valve in both angle and straight versions.

The antique model dates back in late 1890s and precisely expresses the characteristics of that era. This vintage valve is entirely made out of brass, with a bakelite handle and features a fine floral pattern that surrounds the embossed name and heat indicators.

Finishes

Antique brass

